1. The Southeast Asia Association (Tung Nan Ya Hsieh Hui, 東南亞協會), with headquarters in Peiping, has been established to secure cooperation between the Chinese Communist Government, Indochina, Burma, India, Thailand, Malaya, the Philippines, and Indonesia, in matters mutually affecting these countries. The Chairman of the Southeast Asia Association is MAO Tse-tung; LIU Shao-chi (劉少奇) is Vice-Chairman. A branch of the Association, headed by TENG Tzu-hui (鄧子恢)*, is attached to the Central and South China Military and Administrative Committee.
2. There is no association in Canton which renders direct assistance to the Viet Minh, but the Chinese Communists are giving the Viet Minh the following military assistance:
 - a) Transportation of military supplies provided by the Soviet Union.
 - b) Assistance in the training of Viet Minh troops.
 - c) Despatch of political commissars and staff officers as advisors to the Viet Minh armed forces.
 - d) Assistance in training its intelligence officers.
 - e) Supply of military information to the Viet Minh.
 - f) Supply of training centers and supply bases in Kwangtung. Viet Minh centers have been established at Tunghsing (127-51, 46-22), Kwangtung; and at Chinghsi (靖西)-Lungching (136-56, 22-22), to cover Kwangsi; and Makuan (104-20, 23-02) and Ching'ing (金平) to cover Yunnan.
3. In return, the Viet Minh assists the Chinese Communists as follows:
 - a) Supply of military information, foodstuffs and fuel.
 - b) Assistance in mopping-up operations against anti-Communist guerrillas on the Sino-Vietnamese border.
